

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A one-way clutch apparatus with torque transmission elements and biasing members in concave cams on one of the inner and outer races has a retainer rotatable in a circumferential direction relative to the one race, has circumferential grooves on the one race, and has block bearings between the races with radial projections that move circumferentially in corresponding grooves.